Art Unit: 2157

1. This action is responsive to the amendment filed on March 4, 2003. Claims 2-9, 11-18, 19-23, 24-28, and 30-40 were canceled. Claims 1, 10, and 29 were amended. Claims 41-58 were newly added. Claims 1, 10, 29, and 41-58 are pending. Claims 1, 10, 29, and 41-58 represent method program and apparatus directed toward scheduled alias resolution.

2. The following is a quotation of 35 U.S.C. 103(a) which forms the basis for all obviousness rejections set forth in this Office action:

(a) A patent may not be obtained though the invention is not identically disclosed or described as set forth in section 102 of this title, if the differences between the subject matter sought to be patented and the prior art are such that the subject matter as a whole would have been obvious at the time the invention was made to a person having ordinary skill in the art to which said subject matter pertains. Patentability shall not be negated by the manner in which the invention was made.

3. Claims 1, 10, 29, 41, 43-46, 47, 49-52, 53, and 55-58 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) as being unpatentable over Alkhatib, U.S. Patent No. 6,430,623.

Alkhatib teaches the invention substantially as claimed including a Domain Name Routing system that uses the Domain Name to route data sent to a destination on a network (see abstract).

As to claim 1, Alkhatib teaches a method of operating an access system including an access server to provide access between a user system and a plurality of communication networks that provide services to a user, the method comprising:

receiving in the access server a user data packet from the user system with the user data packet including a destination Domain Name (see col. 10, Alkhatib discloses that a user wishing to send a data packet to a destination uses the domain name of the destination as the destination address);

translating the user data packet into a network data packet by replacing the destination alias with a destination network address that relates to a selected one communication network of the plurality of communication networks; and routing the network data packet to the selected one communication network based on the destination network address, wherein the translating enables communication of the user network packet to the selected one communication network without inclusion of the destination network address in the user data packet (see col. 12-14, Alkhatib discloses that a Domain Name Router extracts the Domain Name and translates to a an IP address then routes it to the destination).

Alkhatib does not explicitly teach the limitation of an "alias".

However, Alkhatib teaches domain name routing which uses a prefix naming system to signify the name, organization, or identity of the network (see col. 1-3).

It would have been obvious to one of ordinary skill in the art at the time of the invention to modify Alkhatib by specifying the domain names as aliases since the same functionality of simplifying network addresses is achieved.

As to claims 41, and 43, Alkhatib teaches the method of claim 1 further comprising translating the user data packet according to an domain name schedule, the domain name schedule being configurable (see col. 13, lines 50-55, Alkhatib discloses that a domain name table is configurable and can be set up manually or automatically by an administrator).

As to claim 44, Alkhatib teaches the method of claim 1 further comprising: generating and transmitting a translation request including the destination alias to a database system; and receiving a reply from the database system, with the reply including the destination network address (see col. 13, Alkhatib discloses that the host transmits a translation request to a DNR).

As to claim 45, Alkhatib teaches the method of claim 44 further comprising storing the destination network address in an alias schedule (see col. 13, Alkhatib discloses a configurable DNR table).

As to claim 46, Alkhatib teaches the method of claim 44 wherein the generating and transmitting are performed in response to a determination that an alias translation does not exist in an alias schedule (see col. 13).

Claims 10, 29, 47, 49-52, 53, and 55-58 do not teach or define any new limitations above claims 1, 41, 43-46 and therefore are rejected for similar reasons.

4. Claims 42, 48, and 54 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) as being unpatentable over Alkhatib, U.S. Patent No. 6,430,623 further in view of Voit, U.S. Patent No. 6,282,574.

Alkhatib teaches the invention substantially as claimed including a Domain Name Routing system that uses the Domain Name to route data sent to a destination on a network (see abstract).

As to claim 42, Alkhatib teaches the method of claim 41.

Alkhatib does not explicitly teach the claimed limitation wherein the alias schedule selects an alias translation according to a current time.

However, Voit teaches an enhanced name translation server for use on a data packet network where conditional analysis is executed in response to name translation queries (see abstract). Voit teaches the limitation wherein the alias schedule selects an alias translation according to a current time (see col. 9, Voit discloses that name translation depends on the time the translation request is received).

It would have been obvious to one of ordinary skill in the art at the time of the invention to modify Alkhatib in view of Voit so that time based name translation is performed. One would be motivated to do so to allow a destination user to receive communications destined to the user at different network connection points.

Claims 48, and 54 do not teach or define any new limitations above claim 42 and therefore are rejected for similar reasons.

5. Applicant's amendment necessitated the new ground(s) of rejection presented in this Office action. Accordingly, THIS ACTION IS MADE FINAL. See MPEP § 706.07(a). Applicant is reminded of the extension of time policy as set forth in 37 CFR 1.136(a).

A shortened statutory period for reply to this final action is set to expire THREE MONTHS from the mailing date of this action. In the event a first reply is filed within TWO MONTHS of the mailing date of this final action and the advisory action is not mailed until after the end of the THREE-MONTH shortened statutory period, then the shortened statutory period will expire on the date the advisory action is mailed, and any extension fee pursuant to 37 CFR 1.136(a) will be calculated from the mailing date of the advisory action. In no event, however, will the statutory period for reply expire later than SIX MONTHS from the date of this final action.
